

The City of Savannah's Moses Jackson Advancement Center, in Conjunction with Savannah Technical College, is pleased to Offer Job Training Courses in Culinary Arts, CDL, Medical Front Desk Office Assistant, and Warehousing.

The City of Savannah is teaming up with Savannah Technical College, Georgia Department of Labor and the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to help residents get the certifications needed to land careers in three new fields.

In addition to Warehousing and Distribution, two new technical certificates of credit programs will be available beginning next year at the Moses Jackson Advancement Center (MJAC), 1410B Richards Street, in the west Savannah neighborhood. The areas include Commercial Drivers License (CDL) training and Medical Desk Assistant.

The MJAC will hold information sessions on the programs – Call for more information!

Residents interested in immediate sign-up for the training are encouraged to bring these items to the information session: a photo identification card; proof of residency (a utility bill or statement); $20.00 for STC's admission fee if you have never been a student of Savannah Technical College; a copy of 2012 tax return; and, a copy of your official high school, GED or college transcript in a sealed envelope.

For more information contact the Moses Jackson Advancement Center at 525-2166.
