SAVANNAH, GEORGIA. CITY HALL AND BAY STREET. The great warehouses of the city (the second largest cotton-port and the largest naval store port in the world) occupy a street at the foot of the steep cliff forming the Savannah River on a level with the piers. From their upper stories they open upon Bay Street, the great commercial mart of Savannah.

Sat. P. M. We are having all the heat we want, had a good shower it has been cooler since, the nights have been hot on the boat here we were not fortunate enough to get the breezy side of the house but go on well, we are thinking to take an auto ride at 7:30 to the boat & sail at 6. We are well, have met some nice people, hope it will be cooler in Balt than where we were there last. Kiss Mabel for Grandma.

Factors' Walk - Historic Landmark in Savannah

FACTORS' WALK, SAVANNAH, GEORGIA

Factors' Walk is a network of iron and concrete bridgeways linking top of a high bluff with entrances to buildings. Beneath, leading to Savannah River, are streets and runways paved with cobblestones brought to this country a century ago as ballast in holds of sailing vessels which had been dumped ashore by arriving ships. These walls were built by slave labor using cobblestones and stone block.

During the 19th century the four and five story buildings along the waterfront were home of the bustling cotton market-warehouse below, offices above. Iron walkways connected the upper stories with the bluff giving cotton factors (brokers) easy access to their business.

Historic and Beautiful Savannah, "Birthplace of Georgia," is situated on a deep landlocked harbor at the head of ocean navigation on the Savannah River. More cotton is shipped from here than from any other Atlantic port, and it is the leading export city of the world for naval stores. In Christ Church, on the side of John Wesley's Chapel, was held the first Protestant Sunday School in America. Wormsloe Gardens, on the south end of the Isle of Hope are the most beautiful in the South.
